

Dear Friends

Our journey through Lent is coming to its culmination with Holy Week and the highlight of the great Three Days climaxing with Easter Day and our Resurrection celebration. It will be so good to be back in church for Easter Day itself, but Holy Week itself will have to be observed at home and on-line via Zoom if you are able.

So, the Monday to Wednesday of Holy Week will consist of a talk followed by the beautiful service of Compline. On Maundy Thursday we will be spending quiet time with Jesus, the night before his crucifixion, interspersed with readings and psalms.

On Good Friday there will be Stations of the Cross at 3.00pm and then The Liturgy at 7.00pm. I am hoping the technology will enable us to celebrate the New Fire and Vigil on Holy Saturday at 8.00pm and then Easter Day will be in Church at 10.00am.

For any of the Zoom services please let me know if you wish to join in and I will send you the link. Easter Day is filling up very quickly and as I write there are just 4 places available. If more people want to come on Easter Day than we can accommodate at present, I will keep a reserves list in case anyone drops out.

Despite not being in Church again for Holy Week, I hope our on-line services will help us get the most we can out of this important time as we look to the joy of Easter Day.

After Easter we hope that Sunday services will continue and we will reassess what we can do as the 'roadmap' unfolds, this includes any possible on-line services after Easter.

With every blessing for a good Holy Week.

Fr Martin
